UNIT 1 · LESSON 1 · 8 MINUTES

How a Mandarin Syllable Works

Initial + final + tone: the three parts of every syllable

- Name the three parts of a Mandarin syllable
- See why one character = one syllable
- Know what pinyin is for

Welcome to Mandarin! Before characters, we learn the sounds. Chinese is written in characters, but learners (and Chinese children) use pinyin, the official Roman-letter spelling, to see how each character sounds.

Three parts

Good news: Mandarin syllables are very regular. Every syllable has the same three parts: an initial, a final and a tone.

The recipe

1 Initial

The consonant at the start, like m, h or zh. Some syllables have no initial at all.

2 Final

Everything after the initial: a vowel, a glide like ao, or a vowel + n / ng.

3 Tone

The pitch of your voice: high, rising, dipping or falling. It is shown by a mark over a vowel.

Taking syllables apart

Character	Initial	Final	Tone	Pinyin
妈	m	a	1st	mā
好	h	ao	3rd	hǎo
中	zh	ong	1st	zhōng
学	x	üe (written ue)	2nd	xué
是	sh	i	4th	shì
爱	(none)	ai	4th	ài

Copyright © ZyeemZia

One character = one syllable

Each Chinese character is read as exactly one syllable. A word of two characters has two syllables.

How to say it: Count the characters and you know how many syllables to say.

你好 nǐ hǎo　中国 Zhōngguó　谢谢 xièxie

DID YOU KNOW?

Mandarin has only about 400 basic syllables (around 1,300 with tones), while English has thousands. That is why tones matter so much: they keep words apart.

Tones change meaning

Same initial, same final, different tone: a completely different word. Tap each one and listen.

妈	麻	马	骂
mā	má	mǎ	mà
mother	hemp; numb	horse	to scold

MEMORY TRICK

Think of a syllable as a sandwich: the initial is the top slice, the final is the filling, and the tone is the sauce. Leave out the sauce and it is a different meal!

TIP

Pinyin letters do not always sound like English letters. q, x, c and zh are the big surprises. We meet them all in this unit.

Sounds in this lesson

m — m /mā/ 妈妈 mum	a — a /ā/ 大 big	mā — 1st tone (high and level) /mā/ 妈妈 mum
h — h /hē/ 好 good	ao — ao /hǎo/ 猫 cat	mǎ — 3rd tone (low, dipping) /mǎ/ 好 good

Tap each character, listen, then say it out loud. Name its initial, final and tone.

The Four Tones + the Neutral Tone

High, rising, dipping, falling, and light

- Say the four tones clearly
- Recognise the tone marks
- Hear the difference between tones
- Use the light neutral tone

Tones are the music of Mandarin. Every syllable is said with a pitch shape, and the shape is part of the word. Do not worry: with a little daily practice, your ears and voice will learn them.

The tones

mā — 1st tone (high and level)
/mā/妈妈 mum

má — 2nd tone (rising) /má/茶 tea

mǎ — 3rd tone (low, dipping)
/mǎ/好 good

mà — 4th tone (falling) /mà/不 not, no

ma — Neutral tone (light)
/ma/
谢谢 thank you

1st tone: high and level

Start high and stay high, like singing one long note.

How to say it: Mark: ¯ (a flat line).

妈 八 书 mā bā shū

2nd tone: rising

Start in the middle and go up, like asking "Huh?" or "What?".

How to say it: Mark: ´ (a line going up).

麻 茶 来 má chá lái

3rd tone: low and dipping

Go low, dip down, and (when the syllable is said alone) come back up.

How to say it: Mark: ˇ (a little valley).

马 好 你 mǎ hǎo nǐ

Copyright © ZyeemZia

4th tone: falling

Start high and drop sharply, like a firm "No!".

How to say it: Mark: ` (a line going down).

骂 是 不 mà shì bù

Neutral tone: light

Short, soft and quick, with no mark. It often appears on the second half of a word or on little grammar words.

How to say it: No mark at all.

吗 妈妈 谢谢 ma māma xièxie

Tones at a glance

Tone	Mark	Pitch	Feels like
1st	ā	high, flat	singing a long note
2nd	á	middle → high	a surprised "What?"
3rd	ǎ	low, dip (→ up)	a doubtful "Well...?"
4th	à	high → low	a firm "No!"
neutral	a	short, light	a quick, soft beat

MEMORY TRICK

Draw the tone in the air with your hand as you say it: flat line, up, dip, down. Your voice follows your hand.

Same sound, four meanings

汤	糖	躺	烫
1st tone · tāng	2nd tone · táng	3rd tone · tǎng	4th tone · tàng
soup	sugar, sweets	to lie down	very hot (to touch)

DID YOU KNOW?

Mixing up tones can be funny: ask for 汤 tāng (soup) with the wrong tone and you might be asking for 糖 táng (sugar)!

Copyright © ZyeemZia

About the 3rd tone

Most people speak the 3rd tone low and only rise at the end of a sentence or when the syllable is said alone. Practise the low part first: it is the most important.

Tap and repeat each row. Exaggerate the tones: big tones now, natural tones later.

妈 麻 马 骂 吗

八 拔 把 爸

汤 糖 躺 烫

书 熟 鼠 树

Initials, Group by Group

b p m f · d t n l · g k h

- Say the lip, tongue-tip and back-of-tongue initials
- Hear the difference between b and p, d and t, g and k
- Learn the puff-of-air trick

Mandarin has 21 initials. Teachers group them by where in the mouth you make them. Let us start with the easy groups: most of these sound almost like English.

Lips: b p m f

/bà/爸爸 dad

p /pà/朋友 friend

m /mā/妈妈 mum

f /fā/
米饭 cooked rice

Made with the lips. m and f are just like English. The trick is b versus p.

Tongue tip: d t n l

/dà/弟弟 younger brother

t /tā/天气 weather

n /nà/你 you

l /lā/老师 teacher

Made with the tongue tip behind the top teeth. n and l are just like English. The trick is d versus t.

Back of the tongue: g k h

g /gē/哥哥 older brother k /kě/咖啡 coffee

h /hē/
好 good

Made at the back of the mouth. The trick is g versus k, and h is a little rougher than English h.

Copyright © ZyeemZia

The puff-of-air rule

In Mandarin, b/p, d/t and g/k are not about voice. They are about air: b, d, g have no puff; p, t, k have a strong puff.

How to say it: Hold your hand or a tissue in front of your mouth. No movement: b d g. A clear puff: p t k.

爸 bà　怕 pà　大 dà　他 tā　哥 gē　可 kě

b or p?

爸

b · no puff

bà, dad. Soft, like the p in "spin".

怕 p · puff

pà, to be afraid. Like the p in "pie".

d or t?

肚

d · no puff

dù, belly. Soft, like the t in "stop".

兔

t · puff

tù, rabbit. Like the t in "top".

g or k?

哥

g · no puff

gē, older brother.

科 k · puff

kē, subject (of study).

TIP

The h in Mandarin is made further back, with a little friction, a bit like a gentle version of the "ch" in Scottish "loch". Try 喝 hē (to drink) and 好 hǎo (good).

MEMORY TRICK

p, t, k = "puff, tissue, kick": these three blow the tissue away.

Words to try

q

UNIT 1 · LESSON 4 · 15 MINUTES

The Tricky Initials

j q x · z c s · zh ch sh r

- Say j q x with the tongue tip down
- Say z c s like "ds", "ts", "s"
- Curl the tongue for zh ch sh r
- Say the special "buzzing" i

These ten initials are where pinyin looks least like English. Do not read them with English habits! Take them slowly, one group at a time.

Flat tongue, tip down: j q x

j /jī/家 home, family

q /qī/钱 money

x
/xī/
谢谢 thank you

Put your tongue tip behind your lower front teeth, press the middle of the tongue up, and smile. j has no puff, q has a puff, x is a soft hiss.

Pinyin	Sounds like	Character
j	j in "jeep", tongue tip down	鸡 jī, chicken
q	ch in "cheese", tongue tip down, puff	七 qī, seven x	sh in "sheep" said with a smile	西 xī, west

WATCH OUT

q is never "kw" and x is never "ks". 七 qī sounds like "chee", 谢谢 xièxie sounds like "shyeh-shyeh".

Tongue at the teeth: z c s z /zì/再见 goodbye

c /cí/菜 dish, vegetable s /sì/三 three

Pinyin	Sounds like	Character
z	ds in "kids"	字 zì, character
c	ts in "cats", with a puff	菜 cài, dish
s	s in "sun"	四 sì, four

Copyright © ZyeemZia

WATCH OUT

c is never "k" or "s": 菜 cài sounds like "tsai". And z is not the buzzy z of "zoo": it is "ds", as in "kids".

Curled tongue: zh ch sh r

zh
/zhī/中国 China

ch
/chī/茶 tea

sh /shí/书 book

r /rì/
人 person

Curl the tongue tip up and back towards the roof of your mouth. These are a "curled" version of English j, ch, sh and r.

Pinyin	Sounds like	Character
zh	j in "judge", tongue curled	知 zhī, to know
ch	ch in "church", tongue curled, puff	吃 chī, to eat
sh	sh in "shirt", tongue curled	十 shí, ten
r	r in "run" mixed with s in "pleasure"	日 rì, sun, day

The "buzzing" i

After z c s zh ch sh r, the letter i is not "ee". Hold the tongue where the initial was and just let the voice buzz on.

How to say it: Compare 西 xī ("shee") with 四 sì ("sz") and 十 shí ("shr").

字 zì　四 sì　知 zhī　吃 chī　十 shí　日 rì x, s or sh?

西 x · tongue down
xī, west. Smiling "shee".

四 s · teeth
sì, four. A plain hiss and buzz.

十 sh · curled shí, ten. Tongue curled back.

q, ch or c?

七 q · tongue down qī, seven.

吃 ch · curled chī, to eat.

词 c · teeth
cí, word.

MEMORY TRICK

j q x are "smiley" sounds: tongue down, lips smiling. zh ch sh r are "curly" sounds: tongue curled up. z c s are "snake" sounds: hissing at the teeth.

CULTURE NOTE

In southern China and Taiwan many people pronounce zh ch sh like z c s. Learn the standard curled sounds, but do not be surprised to hear both.

Read each line, feeling where your tongue is.

ü

UNIT 1 · LESSON 5 · 15 MINUTES

Finals and the ü Sound

Simple, compound and nasal finals

- Say the six simple vowels, including ü
- Glide through compound finals like ao and iao
- Tell n from ng

Finals are the vowel part of the syllable. There are quite a few, but they are built from just six simple vowels. Learn those first and the rest snap together.

The six simple vowels

a a /ā/大 big o o /ò/伯伯 uncle (dad's older brother)

e e /è/喝 to drink

i i /yī/米 rice (grain)

u u ü ü /yú/

女 woman, female

Pinyin	Sounds like	Character
a	a in "father"	啊 ā
o	"aw" with round lips	哦 ò
e	"uh" from the back of the throat	饿 è, hungry
i	ee in "see"	一 yī, one u	oo in "food"	五 wǔ, five
ü	"ee" with "oo" lips	鱼 yú, fish

WATCH OUT

Pinyin e is not English e. 饿 è (hungry) sounds like a deep "uh". But inside ie, üe and ei, e sounds like the e in "yes".

Making ü

Say "ee" and hold your tongue still. Now round your lips tightly as if to whistle. That is ü!

How to say it: Smile-and-kiss: tongue says "ee", lips say "oo".

Where the Tone Mark Goes

One simple order: a, then o or e, then the rest

- Put tone marks on the right vowel
- Handle iu and ui correctly
- Write ü with tone marks

A tone mark always sits on a vowel. When a syllable has two or three vowels, which one gets it? There is a simple rule of priority.

Tone mark priority

Look for a first. No a? Look for o or e (they never appear together except in ou, and there o wins). Neither? Put it on the last vowel.

How to say it: a → o / e → last vowel

好 hǎo　谢 xiè　多 duō　狗 gǒu　对 duì　六 liù

Three questions

1 Is there an a?

好 hǎo

good

Yes: mark the a. Also kuài, tiān, xiǎo.

2 No a. Is there an o or e?

谢 xiè

to thank

Mark it: xiè, duō, hēi, gǒu, yuè.

3 Neither? Mark the last vowel.

六 liù

six

iu marks the u, ui marks the i: liù, duì, shuǐ.

MEMORY TRICK

"A gets it first; O and E take turns; otherwise the last one wins."

Copyright © ZyeemZia

Final	Marked vowel	Example ao	a	好 hǎo ia	a	家 jiā
ian	a	天 tiān
ou	o	狗 gǒu
uo	o	国 guó
ei	e	黑 hēi
üe	e	学 xué
iu	u (last)	九 jiǔ
ui	i (last)	水 shuǐ

The dot on i

When i carries a tone mark, the mark replaces the dot.

一 yī　你 nǐ　米 mǐ　是 shì

Marks on ü

ü keeps its two dots and the tone mark goes on top of them.

女 nǚ　绿 lǜ　旅 lǚ

TIP

On a phone or computer you can usually type ü as "v" in pinyin input: "nv" gives 女 nǚ.

Say each word, then say which vowel carries the mark.

谢谢

Tone Changes

3rd-tone pairs, 不 bù and 一 yī

- Change 3rd + 3rd into 2nd + 3rd
- Use the low "half-3rd" tone
- Know when 不 and 一 change tone

Tones sometimes change when syllables sit next to each other. This is called tone sandhi. There are only three common changes, and they make speech flow smoothly.

Rule 1: two 3rd tones in a row

When a 3rd tone comes before another 3rd tone, the first one is said as a 2nd tone. Pinyin still writes the original marks.

How to say it: 3 + 3 → 2 + 3

你好	很好	水果	可以
nǐ hǎo → ní hǎo	hěn hǎo → hén hǎo	shuǐguǒ → shuíguǒ	kěyǐ → kéyǐ

MEMORY TRICK

Two valleys in a row are hard to walk, so the first one climbs into a hill: ní hǎo!

Rule 2: the half-3rd tone

Before a 1st, 2nd, 4th or neutral tone, a 3rd tone is usually just low, without rising back up.

How to say it: Say only the low part of the dip.

老师	很忙	好看	你们
lǎoshī	hěn máng	hǎokàn	nǐmen

Rule 3: 不 bù

不 (not) is normally bù, 4th tone. Before another 4th tone it becomes bú, 2nd tone.

How to say it: bù + 4th → bú + 4th

不是	不对	不要	不好	不来	不吃
bú shì	bú duì	bú yào	bù hǎo	bù lái	bù chī

Rule 4: 一 yī

一 is followed by...	Say 一 as	Examples
nothing (alone, counting, at the end)	yī (1st)	一 yī, 十一 shíyī, 第一 dì-yī

Copyright © ZyeemZia

一 is followed by...	Say 一 as	Examples
a 4th tone	yí (2nd)	一个 yí gè, 一样 yíyàng
a 1st, 2nd or 3rd tone	yì (4th)	一天 yì tiān, 一年 yì nián, 一起 yìqǐ

TIP

Dates and order numbers keep the plain yī: 一月 yīyuè (January), 第一天 dì-yī tiān (the first day). Do not change it there.

TIP

Many textbooks write the changed tones for 不 and 一 (bú shì, yí gè) to help learners, but dictionaries list the original bù and yī. For 3rd + 3rd, pinyin normally keeps the original marks: nǐ hǎo.

不: change or not?

不去 bú qù

not go: 去 is 4th tone, so 不 rises.

不忙 bù máng

not busy: 忙 is 2nd tone, so 不 stays bù.

一: yí or yì?

一共 yígòng altogether: 共 is 4th tone.

一点儿 yìdiǎnr

a little: 点 is 3rd tone.

Read with the tone changes. Listen and copy the flow.

Pinyin Spelling Rules

y and w, ü after j q x, and short forms

- Spell syllables that start with i, u or ü
- Know when ü is written without dots
- Read iu, ui and un correctly
- Use the apostrophe

Pinyin has a few spelling habits. They do not change the sound: they just make syllables easier to see on the page. Once you know them, reading gets much easier.

Starting with i → y

When a syllable has no initial and starts with i, write y. If i is the only vowel (or before n / ng), write yi.

一	也	要	有	烟	英
i → yī	ie → yě	iao → yào	iou → yǒu	ian → yān	ing → yīng

Starting with u → w

When a syllable has no initial and starts with u, write w. If u is the only vowel, write wu.

五	我	外	为	问	王
u → wǔ	uo → wǒ	uai → wài	uei → wèi	uen → wèn	uang → wáng

Starting with ü → yu

When a syllable starts with ü, write yu, and drop the dots.

鱼	月	远	云
ü → yú	üe → yuè	üan → yuǎn	ün → yún

ü after j q x: no dots

j, q, x (and y) never go with u, so after them ü is written plain u. It still sounds like ü!

How to say it: ju, qu, xu, yu = ü sounds.

去	句	学	鱼
qù	jù	xué	yú

ü after n and l: keep the dots

n and l can go with both u and ü, so here the dots matter.

女	努	绿	路
nǚ	nǔ	lǜ	lù

Copyright © ZyeemZia

Short forms

Full form	Written after an initial	Example
iou	iu	六 liù, 九 jiǔ
uei	ui	对 duì, 水 shuǐ
uen	un	春 chūn, 困 kùn

TIP

The hidden vowel is still there in the sound: 六 liù is really "lyoh", 对 duì is "dway".

The apostrophe

When a syllable starting with a, o or e follows another syllable, use an apostrophe so the break is clear.

How to say it: Xī'ān (two syllables, a city) is not xiān (one syllable, first).

西安 先 天安门
Xī'ān xiān Tiān'ānmén

MEMORY TRICK

j, q, x are "too shy" to sit next to plain u, so any u you see after them is really ü wearing a disguise.

Read each word. Think: what is the full form behind the spelling?

一 也 要 有

五 我 外 为

鱼 月 远 云

What Are Chinese Characters?

Pictures, ideas, and meaning + sound

- Know what a character is
- Recognise pictographs and ideographs
- Spot the meaning part and the sound part

Chinese is not written with an alphabet. Each character (汉字 hànzì) stands for one syllable and carries a meaning. Some started life as little pictures, but most are clever combinations of parts.

DID YOU KNOW?

The oldest known Chinese writing was carved on bones and turtle shells more than 3,000 years ago. Many characters you will learn today come from those ancient shapes.

Type 1: pictographs

A pictograph is a simplified drawing of a thing. Over centuries the curves became straight strokes, but you can still see the picture.

Character	Pinyin	Meaning	The picture
人	rén	person	a person walking, two legs striding
日	rì	sun, day	once a circle with a dot in the middle
月	yuè	moon, month	a crescent moon
山	shān	mountain	three peaks
水	shuǐ	water	a stream with splashes
火	huǒ	fire	flames rising
木	mù	tree, wood	branches above, roots below
口	kǒu	mouth	an open mouth

Type 2: simple ideographs

Ideas that are hard to draw are shown with simple signs.

下

Type 3: compound ideographs

Two or more meaningful parts join to make a new idea.

休	明	林	森
xiū	míng	lín	sēn
to rest	bright	woods	forest
a person 亻 leaning on a tree 木	sun 日 + moon 月	two trees	three trees: lots of trees!

好 hǎo
good woman 女 + child 子

Type 4: meaning part + sound part

Most characters (roughly 80%) combine a meaning part (often called the radical) with a sound part that hints at the pronunciation.

How to say it: 妈 = 女 (woman: the meaning) + 马 mǎ (horse: just for the sound). So 妈 is a woman who sounds like "ma": mum!

妈	吗	骂
mā	ma	mà

MEMORY TRICK

When you meet a new character, ask two questions: "What is the meaning part?" and "What is the sound part?" You will remember it twice as fast.

TIP

About 2,500 common characters cover around 98% of everyday written Chinese. You do not need tens of thousands!

The Basic Strokes

Eight strokes build every character

- Name the eight basic strokes
- Write each stroke in the right direction
- Spot strokes inside characters

Every character is built from a small set of strokes: a stroke is one movement of the pen, from touching the paper to lifting it. Learn these eight and you can write anything.

The eight basic strokes

Stroke	Name	How to write it	Found in
一	héng · horizontal	left to right, slightly rising	一二十
丨	shù · vertical	top to bottom, straight down	十中

How to say it: The top and right side of 口 are ONE stroke (横折).

TIP

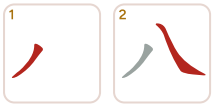

Strokes combine: a horizontal that turns down is 横折 héngzhé; a vertical with a hook is 竖钩 shùgōu. You will see these names in the stroke-order steps.

八 bā · eight

1. Stroke 1: 撇, a stroke from the top sweeping down to the left.
2. Stroke 2: 捺, a separate stroke from the top sweeping down to the right.

★ Two strokes parting like a gate opening: 八 means eight, and it is a lucky number in China!

六 liù · six

1. Stroke 1: 点, a dot at the top.
2. Stroke 2: 横, a long horizontal.
3. Stroke 3: 撇, a short stroke down to the left.

Calligraphers practise with 永 yǒng (forever), because this one character contains nearly all the basic strokes. It is called "the eight principles of 永".

Remember the eight with a story: "Line (横), pole (竖), slide left (撇), slide right (捺), drop (点), flick up (提), bend (折), hook (钩)."

Trace each stroke slowly. Say its name as you write it.

Stroke-Order Rules

Seven rules that tell you which stroke comes first

- Learn the seven main stroke-order rules
- Apply them to new characters
- Know the common exceptions

Chinese people write strokes in a fixed order. It is not just tradition: the right order makes characters faster to write, better balanced, and easier to read in handwriting. A handful of rules covers almost everything.

1. Horizontal before vertical

When a horizontal and a vertical cross, write the horizontal first.

How to say it: 先横后竖 xiān héng hòu shù

十 干 shí gàn

2. Left-falling before right-falling

When 撇 and 捺 meet, write 撇 (down-left) first.

How to say it: 先撇后捺 xiān piě hòu nà

人 八 rén bā

3. Top to bottom

Write the upper strokes or parts before the lower ones.

How to say it: 从上到下 cóng shàng dào xià

三 字 sān zì

4. Left to right

Write the left strokes or parts before the right ones.

How to say it: 从左到右 cóng zuǒ dào yòu

川 林 chuān lín

Copyright © ZyeemZia

5. Outside before inside

Write the frame first, then what is inside it.

How to say it: 从外到内 cóng wài dào nèi

月 同 yuè tóng

6. Inside before closing the box

For a fully closed box, write the left side and top first, then the inside, and close the bottom last.

How to say it: 先里头后封口 xiān lǐtou hòu fēngkǒu

日 回 国 rì huí guó

7. Middle before the sides

When a character has a strong middle stroke with small parts on both sides, write the middle first.

How to say it: 先中间后两边 xiān zhōngjiān hòu liǎngbiān

小 水 xiǎo shuǐ

MEMORY TRICK

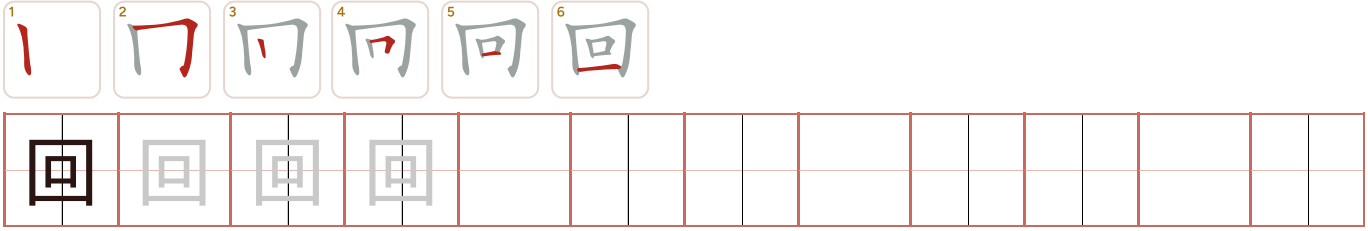

A short chant: "Across, then down. Left slide, then right. Top, then bottom. Left, then right. Outside, then inside, then shut the door. Middle, then the wings."

回 huí · to return

1. Stroke 1: 竖, the left side of the big box.
2. Stroke 2: 横折, the top and right side of the big box in one stroke.
3. Strokes 3–5: the small box inside: left side, top-and-right (横折), then its bottom line.
4. Stroke 6: 横, close the big box at the bottom. Total: 6 strokes.

★ A box inside a box: you go "back" inside before you shut the door.

Exceptions

WATCH OUT

Some exceptions: a dot at the top right often comes last, as in 书 shū (book). And the "walking" part 辶 in 这 zhè (this) and 进 jìn (to enter) is written after the part it holds.

TIP

On the website, tap a character to watch its stroke order animate, then try the stroke-by-stroke writing quiz.

Say which rule each character follows, then write it in the air.

First Characters: Numbers, People, Sun and Moon

一二三十人口日月大

- Write nine basic characters in the correct stroke order
- Remember each one with a picture
- Read simple words made from them

Now the fun part: writing real characters! Each one comes with its stroke order and a memory trick. Write each one several times, saying the strokes aloud.

yī · one

1. 1 stroke: 横, from left to right.
2. Press at the start, move steadily, and lift gently at the end.

★ One line means one. The easiest character there is!

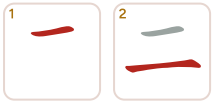

èr · two

1. Stroke 1: a short 横 on top.
2. Stroke 2: a longer 横 underneath.

★ Two lines, two. The bottom line is longer, like a shelf holding the top one.

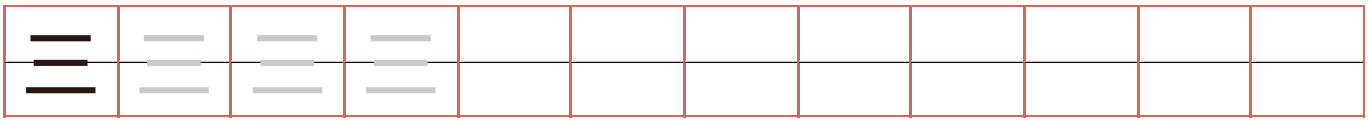

sān · three

1. Stroke 1: a medium 横 on top.
2. Stroke 2: a short 横 in the middle.
3. Stroke 3: the longest 横 at the bottom.

★ Three lines, three. The middle one is the shortest, the bottom one the longest.

Common Radicals

The meaning parts that unlock thousands of characters

- Recognise ten common radicals
- Guess the meaning area of a new character
- Write the radicals in the correct stroke order

A radical (部首 bùshǒu) is the part of a character that hints at its meaning. Dictionaries are organised by radicals, and once you know the common ones, new characters stop looking like random strokes.

Ten radicals to know

亻	dānrénpáng · "person side"	people	你 nǐ you, 他 tā he, 休 xiū rest
口	kǒuzìpáng · "mouth side"	mouth, speaking, eating	吃 chī eat, 喝 hē drink, 叫 jiào call
女	nǚzìpáng · "woman side"	women, family	妈 mā mum, 姐 jiě big sister, 她 tā she
木	mùzìpáng · "tree side"	trees, wood	树 shù tree, 林 lín woods, 桌 zhuō table

water radical

1. Stroke 1: 点, a dot at the top.
2. Stroke 2: 点, a second dot below it.
3. Stroke 3: 提, a rising stroke flicking up to the right.

★ Three drops: drip, drip, splash!

亻

1. Stroke 1: 撇, a short stroke down to the left.
2. Stroke 2: 竖, a vertical line hanging from the middle of the 撇.

★ A person standing sideways to make room for a friend.

★ A mouth (the dot) and the words coming out.

扌 hand radical

1. Stroke 1: 横, a short horizontal.
2. Stroke 2: 竖钩, a vertical line with a hook to the left.
3. Stroke 3: 提, a rising stroke crossing the 竖 from lower left to upper right.

Mandarin	Say it	Meaning
你	nǐ	you 亻

说	shuō	to speak 讠
打	dǎ	to hit; to play (ball) 扌

TIP

A radical gives the area of meaning, not the exact meaning. 忙 (busy) has the heart radical: being busy is a state of mind!

Radicals are usually written narrow or flat, because they share a square with another part.

Building Characters from Parts

Shapes, idea combinations and sound families

- Recognise left-right, top-bottom and enclosed shapes
- Read idea combinations like 休 and 明
- Use sound parts to guess pronunciation

Most characters are built like Lego: two or three parts snapped together in a square. Learn the parts and the ways they fit, and every new character becomes a little puzzle you can solve.

How parts fit together

Shape	How the parts fit	Examples
left + right	two parts side by side	你 好 林 妈
top + bottom	one part above another	字 花 想 家
left + middle + right	three parts side by side	树 谢
full enclosure	a box around the inside	国 回 四
half enclosure	a frame on two or three sides	这 同 医

TIP

Every character fits in an imaginary square, no matter how many strokes it has. A part on the left gets thin; a part on top gets flat.

Idea combinations

Put meanings together and a new meaning appears.

休 xiū to rest
亻 person + 木 tree: resting against a tree

明 míng bright
日 sun + 月 moon: the brightest things in the sky

好 hǎo
good 女 woman + 子 child

林 lín woods
木 + 木: two trees

森 sēn forest
木 + 木 + 木: many trees

从 cóng
from; to follow
人 + 人: one person following another

众 zhòng crowd
人 + 人 + 人: lots of people

尖 jiān pointed, sharp
小 small on top + 大 big below

Copyright © ZyeemZia

男 nán man, male
田 field + 力 strength: working in the fields

安 ān peace, safe
宀 roof + 女 woman

MEMORY TRICK
尖 is the easiest one ever: small on top of big makes a point, like the tip of a pencil.

Sound families

Characters that share a sound part often sound similar. The meaning part on the side tells them apart.

How to say it: Same sound part 马, different radicals: 女 woman, 口 mouth, 石 stone…

马 mǎ · horse
妈 mā · mum
吗 ma · question word
骂 mà · to scold
码 mǎ · code, number

The 青 family

Character	Pinyin	Meaning part	Meaning
青	qīng	(the sound part)	blue-green; young
清	qīng	氵 water	clear (like water)
晴	qíng	日 sun	sunny
请	qǐng	讠 speech	please; to invite
情	qíng	忄 heart	feeling
睛	jīng	目 eye	eyeball

WATCH OUT
Sound parts give a hint, not a guarantee. Tones often differ, and sometimes the sound has changed a lot over the centuries: 睛 is jīng, not qīng.

The 包 family

Character	Pinyin	Meaning part	Meaning
包	bāo	(the sound part)	bag; to wrap
饱	bǎo	饣 food	full (after eating)
跑	pǎo	足 foot (squeezed on the left)	to run
抱	bào	扌 hand	to hug
泡	pào	氵 water	to soak; bubble

Simplified and Traditional Characters

Two ways of writing the same language

- Know where each system is used
- Recognise a few common pairs
- Understand how characters were simplified

There are two standard sets of Chinese characters. This course teaches Simplified characters, used in mainland China. It is useful to know that Traditional characters exist too.

Two systems

Feature	Simplified 简体字	Traditional 繁體字
Used in	mainland China, Singapore, Malaysia	Taiwan, Hong Kong, Macau, many overseas communities
Since	officially from the 1950s–60s	the older standard forms
Strokes	fewer	more

Common pairs

Simplified	Traditional	Pinyin	Meaning
马	馬	mǎ	horse
门	門	mén	door
车	車	chē	vehicle
说	說	shuō	to speak
国	國	guó	country
学	學	xué	to study
书	書	shū	book
龙	龍	lóng	dragon

How characters were simplified

1

Shorter components

说 shuō

to speak

A common part gets a short form: 言 → 讠, 馬 → 马, 門 → 门.

Copyright © ZyeemZia

2 Handwriting shapes

书

book

Flowing handwritten forms became standard: 書 → 书, 東 → 东.

3 Keeping just a part 声 shēng

sound

Only part of the old character remains: 聲 → 声.

4 A simpler sound part

远

far

A sound part with fewer strokes replaced the old one: 遠 → 远.

DID YOU KNOW?

The dragon 龙 has 5 strokes in Simplified, but 龍 has 16 in Traditional!

CULTURE NOTE

A popular joke: Traditional 愛 (love) has a heart 心 inside, but Simplified 爱 lost it and gained 友 (friend) instead. Love without a heart, but with a friend!

TIP

Good news: all 17 characters you learned in this unit (一 二 三 十 人 口 日 月 大 小 中 山 水 火 木 女 子) are the same in both systems. Pinyin and the spoken language are also the same.

Read the simplified characters aloud.

UNIT 2 · LESSON 9 · 15 MINUTES

Copywork and Dictation

Write, listen, and check yourself

- Copy characters neatly in the correct order
- Write characters from dictation
- Check your progress

Practice makes characters stick. In this lesson you copy, then write from memory, then check yourself. A few minutes every day works much better than one long session.

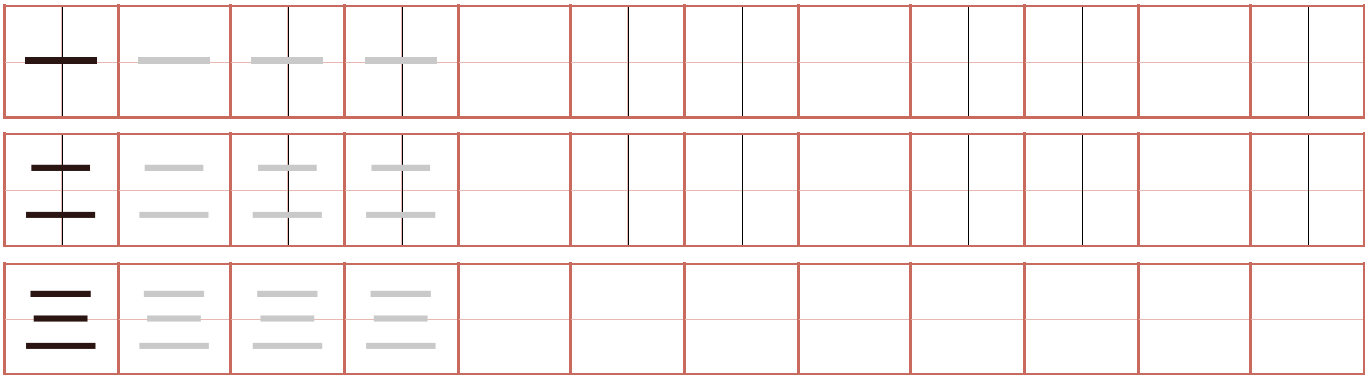

A five-step routine

1. Look
   Study the character. Find its parts and count its strokes.
2. Trace
   Trace it in the grid, saying each stroke name.
3. Copy
   Write it by yourself, looking at the model.
4. Recall
   Cover the model and write it from memory.
5. Use
   Write a word with it, and say it aloud with the right tone.

TIP

Keep each character in its own square, centred and balanced. Write strokes firmly; do not go back over them.

Copywork: all 17 characters from this unit.

Greetings & Politeness

Hello, goodbye, thank you and sorry

- Greet people politely
- Say thank you and sorry
- Answer 'How are you?'
- Say goodbye

Time for your first real Chinese words! Greetings in Mandarin are short, friendly and easy to say. Tap any word to hear it, then copy the voice out loud.

Hello and goodbye

Mandarin	Say it	Meaning
你好	nǐ hǎo	hello 亻 person 你好！我是安娜。(Nǐ hǎo! Wǒ shì Ānnà.) — Hello! I'm Anna.
您好	nín hǎo	hello (polite) 心 heart 老师，您好！(Lǎoshī, nín hǎo!) — Hello, teacher!
你们好	nǐmen hǎo	hello, everyone 亻 person
早上好	zǎoshang hǎo	good morning 日 sun
晚上好	wǎnshang hǎo	good evening 日 sun
晚安	wǎn'ān	good night (before bed) 宀 roof
再见	zàijiàn	goodbye 见 see
明天见	míngtiān jiàn	see you tomorrow 见 see

MEMORY TRICK

再见 is literally 'again see'. You can swap in a time: 明天见 = 'tomorrow see' = see you tomorrow!

TIP

Two third tones together: the first one rises. So 你好 sounds like 'ní hǎo'. The pinyin still writes nǐ hǎo, so just let your voice do it.

CULTURE NOTE

Use 您 instead of 你 for teachers, older people and customers. It shows respect. With friends and classmates, 你 is perfect.

Copyright © ZyeemZia

你好吗?

你	好	吗
you	good, well	(turns it into a question)

Nǐ hǎo ma?

How are you?

Use it with people you already know. With a stranger, a simple 你好！ is enough.

Answering 'How are you?'

我很好。	还可以。	不太好。	你呢?
Wǒ hěn hǎo.	Hái kěyǐ.	Bú tài hǎo.	Nǐ ne?
I'm fine.	Not bad. / OK.	Not so good.	And you?

Magic words

Mandarin	Say it	Meaning
谢谢	xièxie	thank you 讠 speech 谢谢你！ (Xièxie nǐ!) — Thank you!
不客气	bú kèqi	you're welcome 宀 roof
不用谢	búyòng xiè	no need to thank me 讠 speech
对不起	duìbuqǐ	sorry 寸 inch
没关系	méi guānxi	it's OK, never mind 氵 water
请	qǐng	please (inviting, asking politely) 讠 speech 请坐！ (Qǐng zuò!) — Please sit down!
请问	qǐngwèn	excuse me, may I ask... 讠 speech

TIP

不 is normally bù, but before a fourth tone it changes to bú: 不客气 = bú kèqi. In this course we always write the tone you actually say.

CULTURE NOTE

Close friends and family say 谢谢 less than English speakers say 'thanks'. Too many thank-yous can sound a little distant. With shop staff, teachers and strangers, always say it!

DID YOU KNOW?

Older neighbours sometimes greet each other with 你吃了吗? (Have you eaten?). It is just a friendly 'hi', not a dinner invitation!

Introducing Yourself

Your name, your country, nice to meet you

- Say your name with 我叫...
- Ask someone's name
- Say where you are from
- Say 'nice to meet you'

Let's introduce ourselves! With just three short patterns you can tell people your name, where you are from and that you are happy to meet them.

我叫李明。

我	叫	李明
I	am called	Li Ming (a name)

Wǒ jiào Lǐ Míng.

My name is Li Ming.

叫 means 'to be called'. Put your own name at the end.

你叫什么名字?

你	叫	什么	名字
you	are called	what	name

Nǐ jiào shénme míngzi?

What's your name?

Word for word: 'You are called what name?'

MEMORY TRICK

Chinese questions don't flip the word order. The question word sits exactly where the answer goes: 你叫什么名字? → 我叫李明。

您贵姓?

Numbers 0–10 & Hand Signs

Count to ten with your voice and one hand

- Count from 0 to 10
- Use Chinese hand signs for 6–10
- Know when 一 changes its tone
- Know the lucky and unlucky numbers

Chinese numbers are short, clear and very logical. Learn these eleven and you can already count to 99 in the next lesson!

Zero to ten

Mandarin	Say it	Meaning
零	líng	0, zero 雨 rain
一	yī	1, one 一 one
二	èr	2, two 二 two
三	sān	3, three
四	sì	4, four 口 enclosure
五	wǔ	5, five
六	liù	6, six 八 eight
七	qī	7, seven
八	bā	8, eight 八 eight
九	jiǔ	9, nine
十	shí	10, ten 十 ten
两	liǎng	two (before a measure word) 两个人 (liǎng gè rén) — two people

MEMORY TRICK

One, two and three are just lines: 一 二 三. 十 is a cross, like a plus sign. 八 looks like two lines spreading apart.

Copyright © ZyeemZia

WATCH OUT

Listen carefully: 四 (sì, 4) and 十 (shí, 10) sound close. Sì is a short falling 'ss'; shí rises and has the 'sh' sound.

Count on one hand

Number	Chinese	Pinyin	Hand sign
1	一	yī	Index finger up
2	二	èr	Index and middle finger up
3	三	sān	Middle, ring and little finger up
4	四	sì	Four fingers up, thumb folded in
5	五	wǔ	Open hand
6	六	liù	Thumb and little finger out
7	七	qī	Fingertips of thumb, index and middle finger pinched together
8	八	bā	Thumb and index finger out, like an L
9	九	jiǔ	Index finger bent into a hook
10	十	shí	A fist, or two index fingers crossed like 十

CULTURE NOTE

Chinese people count to ten on one hand. You will see these signs at markets and in noisy places. Some regions use small variations, but these are the most common.

The tone of 一 changes

When counting, in dates and at the end of a number, 一 is yī. Before a fourth tone it becomes yí. Before tones 1, 2 and 3 it becomes yì.

一个 yí gè　一天 yì tiān　一年 yì nián　一百 yìbǎi　十一 shíyī

TIP

When people read out phone numbers or room numbers, they often say yāo for 1, so it is not confused with 七 (qī). Room 101 = 'yāo líng yāo'.

DID YOU KNOW?

八 (bā) is the luckiest number because it sounds like 发 (fā, to get rich). The Beijing Olympics opened on 8/8/2008 at 8:08 p.m.! 四 (sì) is unlucky because it sounds like 死 (sǐ, to die), so some buildings skip the 4th floor.

- Ask 'How much is it?'
- Bargain politely at a market

If you know 1 to 10, you already know 11 to 99. Chinese numbers are built like Lego. Then we'll use them to go shopping!

Building numbers

Number	Chinese	Pinyin	How it works
11	十一	shíyī	ten + one
12	十二	shí'èr	ten + two
20	二十	èrshí	two tens
21	二十一	èrshíyī	two tens + one
35	三十五	sānshíwǔ	three tens + five
99	九十九	jiǔshíjiǔ	nine tens + nine
100	一百	yìbǎi	one hundred

Tens + 十 + units

Say the tens digit, then 十, then the units digit. Nothing else to learn!

十五 shíwǔ　四十 sìshí　六十八 liùshíbā　七十七 qīshíqī

WATCH OUT

Order matters! 十四 (shísì) is 14 but 四十 (sìshí) is 40.

Money words

Mandarin	Say it	Meaning
钱	qián	money 钅 metal
块	kuài	yuan (spoken) 土 earth 五块 (wǔ kuài) — five yuan

Copyright © ZyeemZia

Mandarin	Say it	Meaning
元	yuán	yuan (written, on price tags)
毛	máo	0.1 yuan (spoken) 毛 fur
角	jiǎo	0.1 yuan (written)
分	fēn	0.01 yuan; minute 刀 knife
人民币	rénmínbì	RMB, Chinese money 巾 cloth
多少	duōshao	how much, how many
贵	guì	expensive 贝 shell
便宜	piányi	cheap 亻 person
买	mǎi	to buy
卖	mài	to sell 十 ten

MEMORY TRICK

买 (mǎi, buy) and 卖 (mài, sell) look alike. Selling has an extra 十 on top: you need more (+) to sell!

MEMORY TRICK

The radical 贝 is an old picture of a shell. Long ago shells were money, so 贵 (expensive) has a shell inside.

Reading prices

Price	Written (tag)	Spoken
¥5	五元	五块
¥0.50	五角	五毛
¥3.50	三元五角	三块五
¥2	二元	两块
¥12.80	十二元八角	十二块八

TIP

In speech you can drop the last unit: 三块五 = 3.50. And before 块 or 毛 on its own, 2 is 两: 两块, not 二块. But 12 is still 十二块.

色

UNIT 3 · LESSON 8 · 11 MINUTES

Colours

Red for luck, and every colour in between

- Name the main colours
- Use a colour before a noun
- Say which colour you like
- Know what colours mean in China

Colours in Chinese are easy: most are one character + 色 (sè, colour). Some also carry strong cultural meanings.

Colours

Mandarin	Say it	Meaning
颜色	yánsè	colour 页 page
红色	hóngsè	red 纟 silk
黄色	huángsè	yellow
蓝色	lánsè	blue ⺾ grass
绿色	lǜsè	green 纟 silk
白色	báisè	white 白 white
黑色	hēisè	black 灬 fire
橙色	chéngsè	orange 木 tree
紫色	zǐsè	purple 纟 silk
粉色	fěnsè	pink 米 rice
灰色	huīsè	grey 火 fire
棕色	zōngsè	brown 木 tree
金色	jīnsè	gold 金 metal

Copyright © ZyeemZia

MEMORY TRICK

Long ago, cloth was dyed, so many colour characters have the silk radical 纟: 红, 绿, 紫 (at the bottom, as 糸).

Colour + noun

A one-character colour goes straight before the noun, no 色 needed.

红苹果 hóng píngguǒ　白猫 bái māo　黑车 hēi chē

DID YOU KNOW?

Black tea is called 红茶 (hóngchá), 'red tea', because of the colour of the drink. Green tea is 绿茶 (lǜchá).

你喜欢什么颜色?

你	喜欢	什么	颜色
you	like	what	colour

Nǐ xǐhuan shénme yánsè?

What colour do you like?

我喜欢蓝色。
Wǒ xǐhuan lánsè.
I like blue.

我的车是白色的。
Wǒ de chē shì báisè de.

这件衣服是红色的。
Zhè jiàn yīfu shì hóngsè de.

我要黑的。 Wǒ yào hēi de.
I want the black one.
Colour + 的 = 'the … one'.

CULTURE NOTE

Red means luck and joy: weddings, Spring Festival and the red envelopes of money called 红包 (hóngbāo). White is traditionally the colour of mourning. Never give a man a green hat: 戴绿帽子 means his partner is cheating!

DID YOU KNOW?

On Chinese stock market screens, red means prices are going up and green means down, the opposite of many Western screens.

Copy each colour and say it aloud.

Word Order: Subject–Verb–Object

The good news: it's a lot like English

- Build simple subject–verb–object sentences
- Use the personal pronouns
- See that verbs never change
- Know that there are no articles or plural -s

Here's some great news: the basic word order of Chinese is the same as English. Who does what to what: subject, verb, object.

我爱你。

我	爱	你
I	love	you

Wǒ ài nǐ.

I love you.

她学中文。

她	学	中文
she	studies	Chinese

Tā xué Zhōngwén.

She studies Chinese.

Pronouns

Chinese	Pinyin	Meaning
我	wǒ	I, me
你	nǐ	you
您	nín	you (polite)
他	tā	he, him
她	tā	she, her
它	tā	it
我们	wǒmen	we, us
你们	nǐmen	you (more than one)
他们	tāmen	they, them

Copyright © ZyeemZia

MEMORY TRICK

'I' and 'me' are the same word, 我. Swap the places and the meaning swaps: 我爱你 (I love you) → 你爱我 (you love me).

DID YOU KNOW?

他, 她 and 它 all sound exactly the same: tā. Only the written character shows he, she or it.

Verbs never change

No -s, no -ed, no am/is/are. The verb stays the same for every person and every time.

我吃 wǒ chī　他吃 tā chī　我们吃 wǒmen chī

TIP

There is no 'a', 'an' or 'the', and nouns have no plural -s. 书 can mean a book, the book or books. Only people can take 们: 老师们 (teachers), but never 书们.

Subject + verb + object

我喝茶。 Wǒ hē chá. I drink tea.	他看书。 Tā kàn shū. He reads books.	我们学中文。 Wǒmen xué Zhōngwén. We study Chinese.	妈妈做饭。 Māma zuò fàn. Mum cooks.

One small difference

我吃苹果。

Same as English

I eat apples. Subject, verb, object.

我在家吃苹果。

Place moves forward

I eat apples at home. The place comes BEFORE the verb (more on this later).

Read aloud and notice the order: who → does → what.

我爱你。

你爱我。

他喝咖啡。

我们学中文。

她们看书。

很

UNIT 4 · LESSON 3 · 12 MINUTES

Adjectives with 很

Busy, tired, cold, beautiful

- Describe things with 很 + adjective
- Avoid the 是 + adjective mistake
- Say how much: 有点儿, 非常, 太…了
- Make adjectives negative with 不

In Chinese, adjectives behave like verbs. 'I am busy' is simply 'I busy'. But a lonely adjective sounds odd, so we add a little word in front: 很.

我很忙。

我	很	忙
I	(very)	busy

Wǒ hěn máng.

I'm busy.

Here 很 is mostly a link word. It doesn't always mean 'very'.

Subject + 很 + adjective

No 是! Use 很 (or another degree word) before the adjective.

今天很冷。 Jīntiān hěn lěng.

中文很有意思。 Zhōngwén hěn yǒu yìsi.

她很高。 Tā hěn gāo.

WATCH OUT

✗ 我是累。 ✓ 我很累。 (I'm tired.) English speakers make this mistake a lot, so watch out for it!

Common adjectives

Mandarin	Say it	Meaning

Mandarin	Say it	Meaning
高	gāo	tall, high
大	dà	big; old (age)
小	xiǎo	small; young
漂亮	piàoliang	beautiful, pretty 氵 water
难	nán	difficult
容易	róngyì	easy 宀 roof
有意思	yǒu yìsi	interesting 心 heart

冷 has two drops of ice 冫, and 热 sits on four little flames 灬.

How much?

Word	Pinyin	Meaning	Example
不	bù	not	我不忙。
有点儿	yǒudiǎnr	a bit (usually negative)	今天有点儿冷。
很	hěn	(link) / very	他很高。
非常	fēicháng	extremely	非常好！
太…了	tài … le	too… / so…!	太贵了！

TIP

太…了 can be a complaint (太贵了, too expensive) or praise (太好了！, great!). Listen to the tone of voice.

MEMORY TRICK

Without 很, an adjective sounds like a comparison: 他高，我矮。 = He's the tall one, I'm the short one.

我不累。
Wǒ bú lèi.
I'm not tired.

这个菜有点儿辣。
Zhège cài yǒudiǎnr là.

UNIT 4 · LESSON 4 · 12 MINUTES

Yes/No Questions with 吗

Turn any sentence into a question

- Make yes/no questions with 吗
- Answer without 'yes' or 'no'
- Ask A-not-A questions
- Bounce a question back with 呢

This is one of the easiest things in Chinese: to ask a yes/no question, take a normal sentence and add 吗 (ma) at the end. Nothing moves!

Sentence + 吗?

Keep the word order. Just add 吗 and raise your eyebrows.

你是老师吗? — Nǐ shì lǎoshī ma?

你忙吗? — Nǐ máng ma?

你喜欢茶吗? — Nǐ xǐhuan chá ma?

你喝咖啡吗?

你	喝	咖啡	吗
you	drink	coffee	(question)

Nǐ hē kāfēi ma?

Do you drink coffee?

English adds 'do' and moves words around. Chinese just adds 吗.

MEMORY TRICK

Chinese has no single word for 'yes' or 'no'. Answer with the verb: yes = repeat it, no = 不 + verb.

Answer with the verb

Question	Yes	No
你是中国人吗?	是。	不是。
你忙吗?	忙。	不忙。
你喜欢猫吗?	喜欢。	不喜欢。
你有哥哥吗?	有。	没有。

TIP

对 (duì) means 'right, correct' and 好 (hǎo) means 'OK'. They're handy for agreeing, but repeating the verb is the most natural answer.

WATCH OUT

Never use both: X 你忙不忙吗? Choose 你忙吗? or 你忙不忙?

Question Words

What, who, where, how many, how

- Use 什么, 谁, 哪儿, 几, 多少, 怎么
- Keep the question word in the answer's place
- Choose between 几 and 多少
- Ask how to say something in Chinese

English moves question words to the front: 'Where are you going?' Chinese doesn't! Put the question word exactly where the answer will go. That's the whole secret.

The question words

Word	Pinyin	Meaning	Example
什么	shénme	what	这是什么?
谁	shéi	who	他是谁?
哪儿 / 哪里	nǎr / nǎlǐ	where	你去哪儿?
几	jǐ	how many (small numbers)	你有几个孩子?
多少	duōshao	how many, how much	多少钱?
怎么	zěnme	how	你怎么去?
什么时候	shénme shíhou	when	你什么时候来?
为什么	wèishénme	why	你为什么学中文?

Stay in place

Write the answer sentence, then swap the answer for a question word. No change of order, and no 吗.

你去哪儿? Nǐ qù nǎr?

他是谁? Tā shì shéi?

你吃什么? Nǐ chī shénme?

Questions and answers line up

you	when	go	China

Nǐ shénme shíhou qù Zhōngguó?

When are you going to China?

Answer: 我明天去中国 — 'tomorrow' sits right where 'when' was.

WATCH OUT

Question words already make a question, so don't add 吗: ✗ 你去哪儿吗?

TIP

谁 is usually said shéi in everyday speech; you may also hear shuí.

几 or 多少?

Use 几 when you expect a small number (about 1–10) and add a measure word. Use 多少 for any number; the measure word is optional.

你家有几口人?
Nǐ jiā yǒu jǐ kǒu rén?

你们学校有多少学生?
Nǐmen xuéxiào yǒu duōshao xuésheng?

现在几点?
Xiànzài jǐ diǎn?

CULTURE NOTE

Saying No: 不 vs 没

Two little words for 'not'

- Use 不 for habits, wishes, the future and adjectives
- Use 没 for things that didn't happen
- Always say 没有, never 不有
- Hear the tone change of 不

Chinese has two words for 'not': 不 (bù) and 没 (méi). Choosing the right one is easier than it looks: ask yourself 'Did it happen?' and 'Is it 有?'

Two kinds of 'not'

不 bù — don't, won't, am not

Habits, wishes, the future, adjectives and 是.

没 méi — didn't, haven't

Things that did not happen, and 没有 (don't have).

不 + verb / adjective

For what you normally do, want to do, will do, or what something is like.

我不吃肉。
Wǒ bù chī ròu.

明天我不去。
Míngtiān wǒ bú qù.

今天不冷。
Jīntiān bù lěng.

他不是老师。
Tā bú shì lǎoshī.

没 + verb

For something that did not happen (yet).

我没吃早饭。
Wǒ méi chī zǎofàn.

他昨天没来。
Tā zuótiān méi lái.

我还没去过。
Wǒ hái méi qù guo.

我今天没喝咖啡。

我	今天	没	喝	咖啡
I	today	didn't	drink	coffee

Wǒ jīntiān méi hē kāfēi.

I didn't drink coffee today.

Copyright © ZyeemZia

Feel the difference

我不喝咖啡。
Wǒ bù hē kāfēi.
I don't drink coffee.
A habit: I never drink it.

我没喝咖啡。
Wǒ méi hē kāfēi.
I didn't drink coffee.
A fact: it didn't happen.

WATCH OUT
有 (to have) is always made negative with 没: 我没有钱。 (I have no money.) X 我不有钱。

TIP
Remember: 不 becomes bú before a fourth tone: 不去 bú qù, 不是 bú shì, 不要 bú yào. Before other tones it stays bù: 不吃 bù chī.

MEMORY TRICK
Think of 没 as 'no event'. If you could have taken a photo of it happening and you can't, use 没.

Short answers

你吃饭了吗?
Nǐ chī fàn le ma?
Have you eaten?

还没吃。
Hái méi chī.
Not yet.

你明天来吗?
Nǐ míngtiān lái ma?
Are you coming tomorrow?

不来。
Bù lái.
No, I'm not.

Read each pair aloud and think about the difference.

Measure Words

个, 本, 杯, 张, 只, 件 and friends

- Use number + measure word + noun
- Choose the right measure word
- Use 这/那/哪 with measure words
- Use 两, not 二, before measure words

You met measure words in Unit 3. Now let's master them. Every time you count something, or say 'this one' or 'that one', a measure word slips in between.

Number / 这 / 那 / 哪 + measure word + noun

The measure word always sits right before the noun.

三个人 这本书 那杯咖啡 哪件衣服?

sān gè rén　zhè běn shū　nà bēi kāfēi　nǎ jiàn yīfu?

The most useful measure words

Measure word	Pinyin	Used for	Examples
个	gè	people and general things	一个人, 两个苹果
本	běn	books, magazines, notebooks	三本书
杯	bēi	cups and glasses of a drink	一杯水, 两杯茶
张	zhāng	flat things: paper, tickets, photos, beds, tables	一张床
只	zhī	most animals; one of a pair	一只猫, 一只手
件	jiàn	clothes for the top half; matters	一件衬衫, 一件事
条	tiáo	long, bendy things: fish, roads, trousers	一条鱼, 一条裤子
辆	liàng	vehicles	一辆车
位	wèi	people (polite)	三位老师

Picture them: 张 = a flat sheet, 条 = a ribbon, 只 = a single little animal, 本 = a book with a spine, 杯 = a cup (木: cups were once wooden).

2 = 两 before a measure word

Counting things, use 两 (liǎng). Use 二 (èr) in counting, phone numbers and in 12, 20, 22...

两个人 liǎng gè rén　两本书 liǎng běn shū　十二个人 shí'èr gè rén

我买两本书。

我	买	两	本	书
I	buy	two	(measure word for books)	books

Wǒ mǎi liǎng běn shū.

I'm buying two books.

这只猫很可爱。

这	只	猫	很	可爱
this	(measure word for animals)	cat	very	cute

Zhè zhī māo hěn kě'ài.

This cat is very cute.

TIP

In fast speech 个 is often said with a light, neutral tone: 'ge'. And if you forget a measure word, 个 will usually still be understood.

WATCH OUT

只 (zhī) and 支 (zhī, for pens) sound the same. 一只狗 = a dog, 一支笔 = a pen. You may also hear 一条狗 for a dog.

我要一杯咖啡。

Wǒ yào yì bēi kāfēi.

I'd like a coffee.

这张照片很漂亮。

Zhè zhāng zhàopiàn hěn piàoliang.

的: Possession & Description

My, your, the teacher's... and 'the red one'

- Show possession with 的
- Know when to drop 的
- Use adjective + 的 + noun
- Ask 'Whose is it?'

的 (de) is the most common character in Chinese. Its main job is just like English 's: 老师的书 = the teacher's book.

A 的 B = A's B

The owner comes first, then 的, then the thing.

我的书 wǒ de shū　老师的电脑 lǎoshī de diànnǎo　妈妈的车 māma de chē　中国的茶 Zhōngguó de chá

这是我朋友的手机。

这	是	我	朋友	的	手机

他的 / 她的	tā de	his / her, hers
我们的	wǒmen de	our, ours
你们的	nǐmen de	your, yours (plural)
他们的	tāmen de	their, theirs

MEMORY TRICK

Pronoun + 的 gives both 'my' AND 'mine': 我的书 (my book), 这是我的。 (This is mine.)

Drop 的 for close people and groups

With family, close friends, and groups you belong to, 的 is usually left out.

我妈妈 wǒ māma　我朋友 wǒ péngyou　我们学校 wǒmen xuéxiào　我家 wǒ jiā

Adjective + 的 + noun

Longer adjectives, or adjectives with 很, take 的 before the noun. Short one-character adjectives usually don't.

很好的朋友 hěn hǎo de péngyou　漂亮的衣服 piàoliang de yīfu　好朋友 hǎo péngyou　新手机 xīn shǒujī

TIP

Leave out the noun and 的 means 'the … one': 红的 = the red one, 我的 = mine, 贵的 = the expensive one.

这本书是谁的?
Zhè běn shū shì shéi de?
Whose book is this?

是我的。 Shì wǒ de.
It's mine.

在: Where & What's Happening

Location, place of action, and actions in progress

- Say where someone or something is
- Use place words like 上, 里, 旁边
- Say where you do something
- Talk about actions in progress

在 (zài) is a hard-working little word with three jobs: 'to be at', 'at/in (a place)' and '-ing' (doing right now). Let's take them one at a time.

Job 1: X 在 place

在 is the verb 'to be at / in'.

我在家。
Wǒ zài jiā.

书在桌子上。
Shū zài zhuōzi shang.

我妈妈在上海。
Wǒ māma zài Shànghǎi.

Place words

Mandarin	Say it	Meaning
上	shàng	on, above — one
下	xià	under, below — one
里	lǐ	inside 里 village
外	wài	outside 夕 evening
旁边	pángbiān	next to 方 square
前面	qiánmiàn	in front 刂 knife
后面	hòumiàn	behind 口 mouth
这儿	zhèr	here 辶 walk
那儿	nàr	there 阝 city

WATCH OUT

The place word comes AFTER the thing: 桌子上 = 'table-on' = on the table; 包里 = 'bag-inside' = in the bag. English does it the other way round.

Copyright © ZyeemZia

Job 2: 在 + place + verb

To say WHERE you do something, put 在 + place before the verb.

我在银行工作。
Wǒ zài yínháng gōngzuò.

他在家看电视。
Tā zài jiā kàn diànshì.

我在学校吃午饭。

我	在	学校	吃	午饭
I	at	school	eat	lunch

Wǒ zài xuéxiào chī wǔfàn.

I have lunch at school.

English: I eat lunch AT SCHOOL. Chinese: I AT SCHOOL eat lunch.

Job 3: 在 + verb = doing now

Put 在 (or 正在) right before the verb for an action in progress. 呢 at the end makes it sound natural.

我在吃饭。
Wǒ zài chī fàn.

他在看电视。
Tā zài kàn diànshì.

她正在睡觉呢。
Tā zhèngzài shuìjiào ne.

你在做什么?

你	在	做	什么
you	(doing now)	do	what

Nǐ zài zuò shénme?

What are you doing?

TIP

Negatives: 不在 = not at a place (他不在家。 He's not home). 没在 = not doing it right now (我没在看电视。 I'm not watching TV).

On the phone

Xiaoli 喂，你在哪儿?
Wéi, nǐ zài nǎr?
Hello, where are you?

Dan 我在家。
Wǒ zài jiā.
I'm at home.

Xiaoli 你在做什么?

了

UNIT 4 · LESSON 10 · 14 MINUTES

了: Completed Actions

Done, finished, and things that have changed

- Use verb + 了 for completed actions
- Ask 'Have you...?' with 了吗
- Make negatives with 没 (no 了)
- Use 了 at the end for a change

Chinese verbs have no past tense. Instead, a tiny word 了 (le) tells you an action is done. It's not exactly 'past', it's 'completed'.

Verb + 了

了 after a verb shows the action is complete. It is very common with a number or amount.

我吃了。 Wǒ chī le.

我买了三本书。
Wǒ mǎi le sān běn shū.

他喝了两杯咖啡。
Tā hē le liǎng bēi kāfēi.

我昨天看了一个电影。

我	昨天	看	了	一	个	电影
I	yesterday	watch	(done)	one	(measure word)	film

Wǒ zuótiān kàn le yí gè diànyǐng.

I watched a film yesterday.

Questions and negatives

Ask with 了吗? or 了没有? Answer yes with verb + 了. For no, use 没 + verb, and drop 了!

你吃饭了吗?
Nǐ chī fàn le ma?

吃了。 Chī le.

我没吃。
Wǒ méi chī.

还没吃。
Hái méi chī.

WATCH OUT

✗ 我没吃了。 ✓ 我没吃。 没 and 了 don't go together.

Wishes, skills, abilities and permission

- Say what you want with 想 and 要
- Say what you can do with 会 and 能

Where Do Time Words Go?

When comes early in a Chinese sentence

- Put time words before the verb
- Order time, place and action
- Go from big to small in time phrases
- Put 'how long' after the verb

In English, we often put the time at the end: 'I'm going to Beijing tomorrow.' Chinese puts it early, before the verb: 'I tomorrow go to Beijing.'

Subject + time + place + verb

Time comes first, then place, then the action.

我明天去北京。
Wǒ míngtiān qù Běijīng.

我每天早上七点起床。
Wǒ měitiān zǎoshang qī diǎn qǐchuáng.

他下午在图书馆看书。
Tā xiàwǔ zài túshūguǎn kàn shū.

Or time at the very front

You can also start the sentence with the time. Both are correct.

明天我去北京。
Míngtiān wǒ qù Běijīng.

周末我们去公园。
Zhōumò wǒmen qù gōngyuán.

WATCH OUT

✗ 我去北京明天。 Time never goes at the end like in English.

MEMORY TRICK

When → Where → What. First set the time, then the place, then the action, like setting a scene in a film.

我晚上八点在家吃饭。

我	晚上	八点	在	家	吃饭
I	evening	eight o'clock	at	home	eat (a meal)

Wǒ wǎnshang bā diǎn zài jiā chī fàn.

I have dinner at home at 8 p.m.

Big to small

Time phrases start with the biggest unit, like dates do.

明天上午十点　下个星期五晚上　二〇二五年八月

míngtiān shàngwǔ shí diǎn　xià gè xīngqīwǔ wǎnshang　èr líng èr wǔ nián bāyuè

下个月	xià gè yuè	next month
刚才	gāngcái	just now 刂 knife
起床	qǐchuáng	to get up 广 shelter

Ask prices, try things on and bargain with a smile.

- Ask “How much?” and understand prices
- Say “too expensive” and ask for a lower price
- Ask to try something on
- Know where bargaining is normal

Shopping in China ranges from huge malls to busy street markets. In this lesson you will ask prices, try things on and practise friendly bargaining.

At a clothes market

Ben 老板，这件衣服多少钱?
Lǎobǎn, zhè jiàn yīfu duōshao qián?
Excuse me (boss), how much is this top?

Can I try it on?

Seller 可以，那边可以试。

Sure, you can try it over there.

Ben 有点儿贵，便宜一点儿吧。
Yǒudiǎnr guì, piányi yìdiǎnr ba.
It's a bit expensive. Make it a little cheaper.

Yìbǎi bā, zěnmeyàng?

TIP

On the phone, 喂 is usually said with a rising tone (wéi) and means 'hello?'. Face to face it sounds like 'hey, you!', so don't use it to greet people in person.

CULTURE NOTE

WeChat (微信) is used for almost everything in China: chatting, voice messages, paying, booking and work groups. When people meet, they often scan each other's QR code instead of swapping numbers.

Role-play: call an office

1 Answer or start

喂，你好！

2 Ask for someone

请问李经理在吗？

我们改天再约吧。

我们	改天	再	约	吧
we	another day	again	arrange	(suggestion)

Wǒmen gǎitiān zài yuē ba.

Let's make it another day.

CULTURE NOTE

A direct 'no' can feel harsh. People often decline with 我那天有事 ('I have something on that day') or 下次吧 ('next time'). If someone says 改天吧 without naming a day, it may simply be a polite no.

CULTURE NOTE

Whoever invites often pays, and friends may playfully 'fight' over the bill. Among young people, splitting the bill is also common: it's called AA制 (AA zhì).

Role-play: invite a friend hiking

1 Ask if they're free

你周六有空吗?

Nǐ zhōuliù yǒu kòng ma?

Are you free on Saturday?

2 Suggest an activity

Nǐ chī le ma?

Have you eaten?

A friendly greeting, especially from older people. Just answer 吃了 (chī le). It is not an invitation to lunch!

CULTURE NOTE

Many everyday greetings are really comments on what you're doing: 去哪儿啊? (Where are you off to?), 上班啊? (Off to work?), 你吃了吗? (Have you eaten?). They are greetings, not real questions, so a short answer is fine.

CULTURE NOTE

Chinese friends may ask your age, salary or whether you're married. This is usually friendly curiosity. If you'd rather not answer, smile and say 保密! (bǎomì, 'It's a secret!').

DID YOU KNOW?

Temperatures are given in Celsius. 零下五度 (língxià wǔ dù) means −5 °C.

我想请一天假。

我	想	请	一	天	假
I	would like	ask for	one	day	leave

Wǒ xiǎng qǐng yì tiān jià.

I'd like to take a day off.

请假 splits around the length of time: 请两天假 = take two days off.

CULTURE NOTE

请多关照 (qǐng duō guānzhào, 'please look after me') is a polite set phrase for a first day at work or school. Saying it makes a great first impression.

CULTURE NOTE

Use titles: surname + job title, like 王经理 (Manager Wang) or 李老师 (Teacher Li). Calling a teacher or boss by their given name alone can sound too casual.

CULTURE NOTE

The 高考 (gāokǎo), the national university entrance exam, takes place every June. It's a huge event: families plan around it and even traffic is kept quiet near exam halls.

Role-play: your first day

The poem has 4 lines of 5 characters, a form called 五言绝句 (wǔyán juéjù). Lines 1, 2 and 4 rhyme: guāng, shuāng, xiāng.

CULTURE NOTE

Scholars still debate what 床 means here. Today it means ‘bed’, but some think Li Bai meant a folding seat or the railing around a well. Either way, the feeling of homesickness is the same.

CULTURE NOTE

The poem is a favourite at the Mid-Autumn Festival, when the moon is full and people think of family far away.

Going home for the New Year

Are you going back to your hometown for Spring Festival?

Xiao Zhang 回！我们全家一起吃年夜饭。
Huí! Wǒmen quán jiā yìqǐ chī niányèfàn.
Yes! My whole family has the reunion dinner together.

Mia 你们吃什么?
Nǐmen chī shénme?
What do you eat?

Xiao Zhang 饺子、鱼，还有很多菜。年年有余嘛！
Jiǎozi, yú, hái yǒu hěn duō cài. Nián nián yǒu yú ma!
Dumplings, fish and lots of dishes. 'Surplus every year', you know!

Mia 你会收到红包吗?
Nǐ huì shōudào hóngbāo ma?
Will you get red envelopes?

Xiao Zhang 当然！奶奶每年都给我红包。
Dāngrán! Nǎinai měi nián dōu gěi wǒ hóngbāo.
Of course! Grandma gives me one every year.

Mia 那我先祝你新年快乐！
Nà wǒ xiān zhù nǐ xīnnián kuàilè!
Then let me wish you a happy New Year in advance!

Xiao Zhang 谢谢！也祝你新年快乐！
Xièxie! Yě zhù nǐ xīnnián kuàilè!
Thanks! Happy New Year to you too!

MEMORY TRICK

Fish (鱼, yú) sounds like 余 (yú, 'surplus'), so 年年有余 means 'may you have more than enough every year'. That's why fish is served at the New Year's Eve dinner.

CULTURE NOTE

You'll see 福 (fú, good fortune) hung upside down on doors. 'Upside down' is 倒 (dào), which sounds like 到 (dào, 'to arrive'): good fortune has arrived!

CULTURE NOTE

Red envelopes (红包) are given by older relatives to children, and by married adults to younger unmarried relatives. Amounts with 8 are popular and amounts with 4 are avoided. Many people now also send digital red envelopes on WeChat.

Mid-Autumn Festival	we	together	eat	mooncakes	admire the moon

At Mid-Autumn we eat mooncakes and admire the moon together.

CULTURE NOTE

Mid-Autumn is a time for family reunion (团圆, tuányuán). The legend says the goddess 嫦娥 (Cháng'é) lives on the moon with a jade rabbit. China's moon probes are named Chang'e after her.

端午节有龙舟比赛。

端午节	有	龙舟	比赛
Dragon Boat Festival	there are	dragon boat	races

Duānwǔ Jié yǒu lóngzhōu bǐsài.

There are dragon boat races at the Dragon Boat Festival.

CULTURE NOTE

The Dragon Boat Festival remembers the poet 屈原 (Qū Yuán), who drowned himself in the Miluo River about 2,300 years ago. Legend says people raced out in boats to find him. Because of this sad origin, many people prefer the greeting 端午安康 ('peace and health').

Culture Tips: Names, Gifts, Numbers & Table Manners

Everyday customs that help you make a great impression.

- Understand Chinese names and titles
- Give and receive gifts politely
- Know lucky and unlucky numbers
- Follow basic table manners

Good manners open doors everywhere. These tips cover the situations visitors meet most: names, gifts, numbers and meals. Customs vary by region and family, so watch what others do and follow along.

Names

In Chinese names the surname comes first. In 王小明, 王 (Wáng) is the surname and 小明 (Xiǎomíng) the given name. The most common surnames include 王, 李, 张, 刘 and 陈.

Titles and forms of address

Title	Pinyin	Use it for
王先生	Wáng xiānsheng	Mr Wang
王女士	Wáng nǚshì	Ms Wang
王老师	Wáng lǎoshī	Teacher Wang (also polite for respected professionals)
小王	Xiǎo Wáng	a younger friend or colleague
老王	Lǎo Wáng	an older friend or colleague (friendly, not rude)
阿姨 / 叔叔	āyí / shūshu	auntie / uncle: any adult of your parents' age

您贵姓?

您 — you (polite)

贵姓 — honourable surname

Nín guìxìng?

What's your surname? (very polite)

Answer with 我姓....., e.g. 我姓李 (My surname is Li).

Gifts

Bring a small gift when you visit someone's home: fruit, tea, sweets or something from your country. Give and receive gifts with both hands.

Copyright © ZyeemZia

一点儿小意思，请收下。

一点儿	小意思	请	收下
a little	small token	please	accept

Yìdiǎnr xiǎo yìsi, qǐng shōuxià.

Just a little something, please accept it.

CULTURE NOTE

People may politely refuse a gift once or twice before accepting, so offer again kindly. Gifts are often not opened in front of the giver.

WATCH OUT

Traditionally avoided gifts: clocks (钟, sounds like 'end of life'), umbrellas (伞, sounds like 'separate'), pears to share (梨 lí sounds like 离 lí, 'to part') and green hats (a joke about an unfaithful partner). Red and gold wrapping is festive; plain white or black is linked to funerals.

Lucky and unlucky numbers

八 bā
8: sounds like 发 (fā, to prosper). The luckiest number!

六
liù
6: 六六大顺, 'everything goes smoothly'.

九 jiǔ
9: sounds like 久 (jiǔ, long-lasting). Lucky for love and long life.

四 sì
4: sounds like 死 (sǐ, death). Some buildings skip 4th floors.

五二零 wǔ èr líng
520: sounds a bit like 我爱你 (I love you). 20 May is an online 'love day'.

DID YOU KNOW?

The Beijing Olympics opened on 8 August 2008 at 8:08 p.m. Lucky eights everywhere!

Table manners

At a meal, wait for the host or the eldest person to start. The host often orders and may put food in your bowl as a kind gesture.

At the table

筷子	kuàizi	chopsticks
干杯	gānbēi	cheers! (literally 'dry the glass')

我	敬	您	一杯
I	respectfully toast	you (polite)	a glass

大家慢慢吃。

大家	慢慢	吃
everyone	slowly	eat

Dàjiā mànmàn chī.

Enjoy your meal, everyone.

Say this if you finish and leave the table before others.

WATCH OUT

Never stand your chopsticks upright in a bowl of rice: it looks like incense sticks at a funeral. Don't tap your bowl with them or point them at people either.

CULTURE NOTE

When clinking glasses with an older person or a boss, hold your glass a little lower than theirs to show respect. If you don't want to drink it all, say 随意 and just take a sip.

CULTURE NOTE

Hosts traditionally order more than everyone can eat, to show generosity. Today many people also support the 'Clean Plate' campaign (光盘行动, guāngpán xíngdòng) against food waste, so finishing your rice is fine.
